Phenolic resin coating on the treadmill bolts provides durability, self-lubrication, and extended lifespan.

Rubber spring cushioning system offers superior shock absorption, promoting joint protection for lower limbs. With a two-stage buffering structure, it automatically adjusts to users of different weights, providing enhanced joint protection.

Symmetrical inwards sloping design of the foot pedal edges ensures reliable safety protection for users.

Wireless charging for mobile phones adds extra value and convenience beyond the product's primary functions.

Integral foam handlebars provides a better user experience and safety protection.

Designed with incline settings ranging from 0 to 20%, offering users a broader range of incline training options.

Equipped with Bluetooth module for connectivity to apps like Zwift, enabling training and data collection.
